

By Joe Gilbert

Bromides you might embrace

This Old Clamdigger has many lingering thoughts, just around the corner. For instance:

The best way to get even is to forget.

Feed your faith and your doubts will starve to death.

God wants spiritual fruit, not religious nuts.

Some folks wear their halos much too tight.

Some marriages are made in Heaven, but they have to be maintained on Earth.

Unless you can create the whole universe in five days, perhaps giving "advice" to God isn't such a good idea.

Sorrow looks back, worry looks around, and faith looks up.

Standing in the middle of the road is dangerous. You will get kicked down by the traffic from both ways.

Words are the window to the heart.

A skeptic is a person who, when he sees the handwriting on the wall, claims it's a forgery.

It isn't difficult to make a mountain out of a molehill; just add a little dirt.

A successful marriage isn't finding the right person, it's being the right person.

The mighty oak tree was once a little nut that held its ground.

Too many people offer God prayers with claw marks all over them.

The tongue must be heavy indeed, because so few people can hold it.

To forgive is to set the prisoner free and then discover the prisoner was you.

You have to wonder about humans who think God is dead and Elvis is alive.

You'll notice that a turtle only makes progress when it sticks its neck out.

If the grass is greener on the other side of the fence, you can bet the water bill is higher.

You are richer today if you have laughed, given, or given this day.